Radar Sees Red Flights; Yank Jets Scramble

SAIGON, South Viet Nam — Equipped with air to air missiles have been heading toward the Communist north the past few days to meet the threat of approaching Red Chinese MIG planes, U.S. military sources say.

Though no clashes have taken place, the opposing flights were reported close enough to make positive radar identification, the sources added.

Saigon, capital of South Viet Nam, held an air raid alert Sunday, its first since World War II when U.S. planes bombed the Japanese-occupied city.

Communist propaganda organs renewed charges against the United States for its reprisal action against North Viet Nam last week. And North Viet Nam indicated it was rejecting a U.N. Security Council invitation to take part in a debate on the crisis.

Informants said the Chinese MIGs, flying from Hainan Island across the Gulf of Tonkin, halted short of the heavily-reinforced frontier and U.S. naval units in the South China Sea. The American planes were F102 fighters from the Da Nang Air Base and Navy F4 and F8 jets from the U.S. 7th Fleet.

Some 30 U.S. jets moved into position Saturday to meet a possible Communist thrust, sources said.

Communist China said Sunday that the U.S. raid on North Viet Nam gives Peking "the right to take action" in "every possible form" to help the North Vietnamese regime.

Peking People's Daily, official organ of the Chinese Communist party, said in an editorial quoted in a radio broadcast: "U.S. aggressors, don't you rejoice too soon. Don't think you can get away with your surprise attack on the democratic Republic of Viet Nam. To tell you frankly, the debt in blood you owe the Vietnamese people must be repaid."

The U.S. air strike on North Viet Nam's shore bases last Wednesday was in retaliation for North Vietnamese PT boat attacks on U.S. 7th Fleet destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin

Tribute Paid Slain Rightists

Mourners Chant: 'We Shall Overcome'

NEW YORK (AP) — Joined hand to hand and chanting "we shall overcome," thousands of white and Negro mourners paid tribute Sunday night to two white civil rights workers slain in Mississippi.

In separate service and at an outdoor rally, the young men were eulogized as "martyrs, compassionate and totally committed to nonviolence."

The FBI discovered the bodies of the New Yorkers — Andrew Goodman, 20, and Michael Schwerner, 24, — and James Chaney, 21, a Negro from Meridian, Miss., last Tuesday in a grave near Philadelphia, Miss. The trio vanished near Philadelphia June 21 at the beginning of a summer drive to register Negroes to vote.

At the memorial service for Schwerner at the Community Church in Manhattan, James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said, "one of the tragedies of our world is that evil societies kill their conscience and gentlefolk."

Another speaker, John Lewis, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, said the "question is not who killed Mickey, James and Andy, but what killed" them.

"Apathy," he said. Earlier, at the funeral for Goodman at the Ethical Culture Society, Ralph Engelmann, Goodman's college mate from Queens, said: "Andy taught us an old truth: None is free until all are free."

Gunshot Wound Kills Man in Hocking Mishap

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Columbus man died Sunday night in University Hospital of a gunshot wound apparently accidentally self-inflicted.

The victim was Michael R. Allemang, 22. His family said he accidentally fired a .22 caliber rifle into the ground while on a picnic south of Logan. The bullet ricocheted, striking him in the head.

Hocking County sheriff's deputies are investigating.

Congress Drives To Clear Its Legislative Decks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress pushes ahead today in a drive to clear the legislative decks and adjourn by the end of next week.

The target date for adjournment is Aug. 22 — two days before the Democratic National Convention opens in Atlantic City, N.J.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Sunday night in a television-radio interview (NBC-Meet The Press) that he still hopes for adjournment by the 22nd, but added "I wouldn't bet on it."

If Congress doesn't finish its work by that date, he said, it will be back on the job after the convention.

Mansfield said "I am very proud of what this Congress and its predecessor have done." Asked about help from the Republican side of the aisle, he said "it has been very significant and much of the legislation which we've passed would not have been possible without Republican support."

He said Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen has "placed his country ahead of his party" and contributed particularly in foreign affairs.

Mansfield said he thought reapportionment of state legislatures stands a good chance of Senate passage.

The Democratic leader said he had been in touch with Dirksen and legal advisers over the weekend trying to work out another way to ease the effects of the Supreme Court's decision of last June 15 which said each legislative district must be "substantially equal" in population. It said both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned on a "one person, one vote formula."

Dirksen in turn came up with a bill that would delay reapportionment for two years for some states, four years for others. He said he would include it as a rider on the foreign aid authorization bill. Mansfield said he doesn't believe Dirksen's approach on the delay "is the correct one" and "may well turn out" to be unconstitutional.

While the Senate continues its foreign aid debate today, the House takes up a bill to liberalize veterans' pension laws.

The House may tackle a housing bill about the middle of the week. The measure would extend the present public housing program for another year and increase it by 35,000 housing units.

The House also is scheduled this week to decide whether to try working out a compromise on a Senate-passed measure to set strict quotas on imported meat. The administration, fearful of the effect on U.S. negotiations for freer access to European markets for agricultural products, opposes the quota plan.

Supporters of a health care plan for the aged under Social Security continue to press their case before the Senate Finance Committee. There will be an effort to attach his program to the pending Social Security bill. But any such move, even if successful in the Senate, would face formidable opposition from House conferees.

The Senate also has on its calendar some $7 billion in appropriation bills for agricultural programs and military construction and the program to attack the economic problems of the Appalachian area.

Hamrick Fund Criterion Is Set Here

The John Hamrick Youth Memorial Fund Committee today approved a proposed list of rules to serve as a criterion in administering the fund.

The action was taken during a morning meeting held at Boyer's Restaurant.

Present were George Hamrick, Robert Wood, Robert K. Wavering, Loring Leist, Don Archer and Earl Palm.

The first proposal on the list was to make the fund perpetual or permanent.

THE COMMITTEE which drew up the proposals, composed of Wavering, Hamrick, Archer and Wood, suggested the fund be incorporated and the necessary papers be filed with the Internal Revenue department listing it as a non-profit organization.

The fund is to be used for the youth of Pickaway County for recreational and educational purposes.

It will be controlled by a five man committee to be elected for the first time for terms of one, two, three, four and five years duration. One new member is to be elected annually for a five year term thereafter.

The committee will appoint the new member each year. No member can be appointed to consecutive terms.

The committee proposed that 90 per cent of all contributions be invested. The remaining ten per cent of the contributions, plus the interest from the investments will be used in the operating fund.

Committee members will serve without compensation.

AN AUDIT will be conducted each year by some person other than a current committee member. The president and treasurer's signature will be required on all checks or warrants withdrawn from the fund.

The members present this morning decided to name a committee by the first of September.

HONG KONG (AP) — A Communist newspaper today published a picture of the U.S. pilot it said had been shot down last week during the U.S. raid on North Viet Nam's torpedo-boat bases.

The newspaper Wen Wei Pao identified the pilot as Lt. (j.g.) Everett Alvarez Jr. of San Jose, Calif. It carried the picture on a U.S. Navy identification card bearing Alvarez's signature together with a shot of a wrecked plane the newspaper said had been piloted by Alvarez.

Officials of North Viet Nam had said earlier that Alvarez had been captured, but publication of the picture of his identification card was the first concrete evidence supporting the statement. The picture's caption said the plane had been downed near Hanoi.

The Pentagon in Washington had listed Alvarez, 26, as one of two U.S. pilots missing after the attack.

U.S. Is Seeking Cypriot Truce

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States pressed diplomatic efforts today to keep the lid on the Cyprus cease-fire and propel it toward an eventual permanent solution.

After an opening round of top-level diplomacy in which President Johnson cabled personal appeals Sunday to the Greek, Turkish and Cypriot government heads, Washington was channeling its main efforts through the United Nations.

Renewed hostilities, U.S. officials feared, could bring on a war between Greece and Turkey that would shatter NATO's eastern flank and conceivably pave the way for a wider East-West conflict.

Undersecretary of State George W. Ball voiced the U.S. view Sunday night after a weekend of efforts to shut off Greek Cypriot attacks on Turkish Cypriot positions and counterattacks by planes and warships from Turkey.

Johnson's appeals to the three government heads and the U.N. Security Council's cease-fire call at an emergency afternoon session highlighted the feverish diplomatic effort.

"We should avoid a conflict which would be disastrous for all concerned, and we've made progress toward this tonight," Ball said in a CBS interview. "I am hopeful that we can bring this problem toward a permanent solution rather quickly."

U.S. diplomats hoped that the de facto cease-fire on the island brought about by nightfall would be cemented by the U.N. cease-fire call, giving the U.N. commander in Cyprus a chance to work out arrangements on the spot for a permanent cessation of hostilities.

Washington also sought a withdrawal of an estimated 5,000-7,000 professional-type soldiers which have slipped into the island since President Makarios served notice last December he wanted an end to the existing constitutional arrangement dividing power between the Greek and Turkish factions.

They include perhaps 4,000-6,000 fighters added to the Greek side on Cyprus and probably fewer than 1,000 from Turkey, according to U.S. estimates.

Beyond that, U.S. authorities had hopes for renewed stress on the negotiations for a permanent political solution being conducted in Geneva under a U.N. mediator.

All this depended, of course, on an end to the Greek Cypriot attacks and the Turkish counterblows.

The U.S. naval force in the Mediterranean, the 6th Fleet, was reported on a standby basis.

Assassination Tied to Reds

WASHINGTON (A) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities says the propaganda and agitation campaigns of the Communist party were responsible for the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

However, the committee said it takes no position on the question of "whether the assassination of President Kennedy was an individual act or the work of conspiracy."

A presidential commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren is expected to conclude next month that accused assassin Lee Harvey Oswald was a loner who acted out of his own aberrations when he fired the bullets that killed Kennedy last Nov. 22 in Dallas.

The House committee discussed Kennedy's murder in its annual report issued Sunday. It recommended that Congress pass a law making assassination of the president or vice president a federal crime.

Air Attack Brings Scare

Ankara Conditions Nod on Cease-Fire

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Turkey and the Greek Cypriot government agreed to a U.N. Security Council call for a cease-fire on this embattled island today. A brief Turkish air attack on a northwest village before Turkey's announcement sent a new scare through Cyprus.

Greece said it hoped the strafing attack on a square in Polis was due to a mix-up in Turkish military orders.

A government source in Nicosia said 10 persons were wounded in the Polis attack.

A Turkish government spokesman said after a Cabinet meeting in Ankara that Turkey would accept the U.N. call for the cease-fire, but only on the condition that Greek Cypriots halt their attacks on Turks on the island. The Turkish Cabinet met an hour after reports of the Polis attack reached Ankara.

The Greek Cypriot government said it had ordered a cease-fire unilaterally as of Saturday. It made no mention of fighting that erupted around the Turkish village of Kokkina Sunday or around Nicosia Sunday night.

A Greek Cypriot spokesman said:

Dixiecrat Eyes South's Election Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — The big question in this year's presidential race is whether the South will "reward a political enemy and punish an old friend," Rep. Carl Vinson, D-Ga., says.

In a statement released in Washington Sunday, Vinson said this would be the case if the South supports Sen. Barry Goldwater and opposes President Johnson.

He said the question is whether the South will be "blinded by its anger and frustration of the moment regarding its civil rights problems."

Johnson and Goldwater have voting records over these years, he said, "and both are poised today in roles almost exactly opposite their official records. Why?"

He said Johnson followed the course of all other Southerners "in attempting to stem the storm," while he said Goldwater "followed the opposite course" and "repeatedly identified himself with proponents for civil rights."

Contending that Goldwater has reversed himself, he asked, "Can it be purely for political expediency?"

Johnson, as a Southerner, "espoused the cause of the South," said Vinson, while "Lyndon Johnson, as President, had no other choice but to reflect the will of a majority of the nation."

North Viet Nam's official newspapers Nhan Dan said: "Our people will never be duped by the U.S. imperialists who intend to use the United Nations to execute their plan of slander against our country."

North Viet Nam's army command charged that two U.S. reconnaissance planes flew over Red soil Sunday. It protested to the International Control Commission which is responsible for supervising the Geneva agreement.

Communist guerrillas Sunday kidnapped a U.S. aid mission official 230 miles northeast of Saigon. Officials said Joseph W. Granger, 39, Sumter, S.C., was stopped by the Viet Cong while riding in a jeep with a Filipino technician and a Vietnamese sugar plantation director.

Granger was the first civilian U.S. official to be captured by the Viet Cong.

Barry Details Extremism Views

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, in a bid for party unity, says the "extremism" he advocated in defense of liberty could be paraphrased as "wholehearted devotion" to the cause of liberty.

The Republican presidential candidate, in his July 16 speech accepting the nomination, said: "I would remind you that extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice. And let me remind you also that moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue."

Various prominent Republicans have urged the Arizona senator to elaborate on his use of the word "extremism."

In a letter to former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, which Nixon made public Sunday, Goldwater said: "If I were to paraphrase the two sentences in question in the context in which I uttered them I would do it by saying that wholehearted devotion to liberty is unassailable and that half-hearted devotion to justice is indefensible."

This was the concluding paragraph of the 550-word letter written, Nixon said, in response to a letter he sent to Goldwater on Aug. 4.

Goldwater said that "misunderstandings must not be permitted to stand in the way of the unity of principle and purpose that is essential to a Republican victory in November."

Goldwater further wrote: "One portion of that correct context — and a most important one — was the paragraph immediately preceding the two sentences in question."

"In it I urged that we resist becoming captives of 'unthinking labels' — most of all those coined with divisive intent by our political opponents, by those who reject the body of principle by which we define our Republi-

Sunday, the council called for a firm cease-fire on Cyprus after wrestling with the crisis at two urgent sessions over the weekend.

After numerous delays and haggling over wording, the council directed its president to appeal for a cease-fire by both Greek Cypriot and Turkish Cypriot elements and by Turkey. Then it approved a resolution sponsored by the United States and Britain reinforcing the demand.

Once Around Roundtown

With the Pickaway County Fair over, area residents were put in the mood for Pumpkin Show yesterday with the showing of a 30-minute color film on TV 4. The Pumpkin Show story was reported "very well done" by the many viewers of the 5:30 p. m. presentation.

Orley "Doc" Bosworth, who worked with the photographers who "shot" the '63 extravaganza, is to get a print of the film which will be used for local promotion. Bosworth heads up the Pumpkin Show publicity committee.

Now, at the urging of the four Walker children, she has got out the nail polish and Old Timer's phone number is up to date.

DAIRY JUDGE — Lynn Fraunfelder won the 4-H dairy judging contest for the second consecutive year. It is the fourth straight time a member of the Salter Creek Livestock Club has won the competition. Lynn would not accept the dairy heifer given to the winner. She requested it be given to Larry Stelbel of the Madison Livewires who finished second. The heifer is awarded by Walnut Twp. dairyman Wayne Hines.

Pope Offers His Service As World Peacemaker

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI offered in the first encyclical of his reign today to go beyond "a watchful and understanding interest" and help seek honorable solutions of disputes threatening world peace.

Without specifying exactly what his intervention might take, the Roman Catholic pontiff wrote:

"Regarding the great and universal question of world peace, we say at once that we shall feel it especially incumbent upon us not merely to devote a watchful and understanding interest, but also to entertain a more assiduous and efficacious concern.

"This will be, of course, within the limits of our ministry and so utterly divorced from purely temporal interests and strictly political forms, but it will be eager to make its contribution in educating mankind to sentiments and ways of acting contrary to violent and deadly conflict, and in fostering rational and civilized agreements for peaceful relations between nations.

"We shall also be solicitous to help by proclaiming higher human principles that should serve to temper the passions and selfishness from which armed conflict springs, and promote the harmonious relations and fruitful collaboration of all peoples, and we shall be ready to intervene where an opportunity presents itself, in order to assist the contending parties to find honorable and fraternal solutions for their disputes."

The Pope also proposed a joint discussion with non-Christian religions, aimed at defending common ideals.

The 14,000-word encyclical — a letter to Roman Catholic bishops around the world — put down "practical guidelines" for Paul's 13-month-old pontificate.

It was a broad statement of the role of the Roman Catholic Church in the modern world. Its title — Ecclesiam Suam, His Church — was derived from the first two words of its official Latin text. The reference is to Christ.

Pope Paul condemned communism and atheism, saying the substitution of religion with a godless scientific conception "is the most serious problem of our time." But he expressed the hope that ideological systems denying God "may one day be able to enter into a more positive dialogue with the Church than the present one which we now of necessity deplore and lament."

He renewed pledges to work for Christian unity and spoke of finding "greater courage to undertake the necessary reforms" started in the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

But he reaffirmed the Roman Catholic concept of papal primacy and said he was distressed that many non-Catholic Christians considered the papacy a "stumbling block" to unity. He asserted he could not "commit the Catholic Church to a promise with the integrity" of the Catholic faith in seeking unity.

Council reforms, he added, "cannot concern either the essential conception of the church or its basic structure."

What creates the enormous stresses in the earth's crust which leads to an earthquake still is not known.

SCD Proposal Studied Again By Board

A study of how the Scioto Conservancy District's flood control proposal will affect the county was continued early today by the County Board of Commissioners.

Chairman Clyde Michel said the Commission will endeavor to hear all sides of the controversial issue. Many property owners within the District, plus governing bodies have voiced and filed objections against the proposal. Others have pointed out merits of the project.

According to the Conservancy District's appraisal, county government here would be assessed in the neighborhood of $75,000 for the benefits derived.

City Council last week approved a resolution authorizing the solicitor to prepare an objection to the proposal. The city would be assessed about $33,000.

IN OTHER business, the county solons viewed a plat concerning the proposed Logan Elm Village housing development south of Circleville.

The plat, as submitted, listed 51 lots. It was defined as section No. 1 of the housing proposal.

Air Attack

bishop Makarios (Cyprus' president) said the government of the Cyprus republic will fully respect a Security Council resolution on the cease-fire in Cyprus. . .

There were no reports of ground fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots in the tense northwest coastal strip between Polis and Xeros.

The attack on Polis was the fourth consecutive day of Turkish air activity over Cyprus.

Alex Efty, an Associated Press correspondent at the scene, said the American-built F104 jets appeared while the townspeople were sipping coffee in the main square, most of them talking about the crisis. He said the villagers ducked for cover before the jets made two runs, firing into the square.

In Paris, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization disclosed that Turkey was withdrawing some of her air force from the alliance "for use in her national interest."

The announcement from Supreme Allied Headquarters for Europe said "such action is permissible and provided for under the NATO treaty." The United States, Britain and other NATO members have been strenuously pressing for a settlement of the Cyprus strife to avoid an open breach between Turkey and Greece, guardians of NATO's eastern flank.

The alliance's permanent council was summoned into special session today to take up the Cyprus crisis for the third time in six days.

A U.S. Air Force C130 cargo plane evacuated 35 American dependents and members of the U.S. Embassy staff to Beirut from Nicosia. Among them were Ambassador Taylor Belcher's wife and two teen-age sons.

A spokesman said the State Department ordered the evacuation.

In Athens, Greek Foreign Minister Stavros Costopoulos called in the Turkish ambassador and said Greece could not restrain the Cyprus government from "necessary defensive measures" if Turkey repeated its warlike activities.

Costopoulos said he told the Turkish envoy that Greece hoped the attack on Polis was "due to the fact that not all Turkish forces have received orders of a cease-fire."

Earlier, the Greek Cypriots charged that Turkish troops slipped ashore before dawn to aid the beleaguered Turkish Cypriot fishing village of Kokkina, 20 miles west of Polis.

Turkey and the U.N. Command on Cyprus denied there had been any landing. But the Cyprus government demanded another urgent meeting of the Security Council to consider what it called "perhaps a limited invasion."

Costopoulos said the Turkish garrison at Kokkina, the last Turkish Cypriot coastal stronghold, opened mortar fire on Greek Cypriot positions during the morning. But other sources said the situation there was quiet.

Turkey began the attacks last Friday to halt the Greek Cypriot advance on Kokkina.

Damage Slight In 2 Fire Calls

The Circleville Fire Department answered two calls yesterday. Total damage was estimated at $5.

At 9:10 p. m. a shed at 695 E. Mound St. caught fire. Slight damage to the contents resulted.

Plate Said Taken

Charles Hettinger, Columbus, told local police Saturday that a temporary license plate was taken from his car. He said the tag apparently was removed while he was attending the County Fair.

Air Attack

bishop Makarios (Cyprus' president) said the government of the Cyprus republic will fully respect a Security Council resolution on the cease-fire in Cyprus. . .

There were no reports of ground fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots in the tense northwest coastal strip between Polis and Xeros.

The attack on Polis was the fourth consecutive day of Turkish air activity over Cyprus.

Alex Efty, an Associated Press correspondent at the scene, said the American-built F104 jets appeared while the townspeople were sipping coffee in the main square, most of them talking about the crisis.

He said the villagers ducked for cover before the jets made two runs, firing into the square.

In Paris, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization disclosed that Turkey was withdrawing some of her air force from the alliance "for use in her national interest."

The announcement from Supreme Allied Headquarters for Europe said "such action is permissible and provided for under the NATO treaty." The United States, Britain and other NATO members have been strenuously pressing for a settlement of the Cyprus strife to avoid an open breach between Turkey and Greece, guardians of NATO's eastern flank.

The alliance's permanent council was summoned into special session today to take up the Cyprus crisis for the third time in six days.

A U.S. Air Force C130 cargo plane evacuated 35 American dependents and members of the U.S. Embassy staff to Beirut from Nicosia. Among them were Ambassador Taylor Belcher's wife and two teen-age sons.

A spokesman said the State Department ordered the evacuation.

In Athens, Greek Foreign Minister Stavros Costopoulos called in the Turkish ambassador and said Greece could not restrain the Cyprus government from "necessary defensive measures" if Turkey repeated its warlike activities.

Costopoulos said he told the Turkish envoy that Greece hoped the attack on Polis was "due to the fact that not all Turkish forces have received orders of a cease-fire."

Earlier, the Greek Cypriots charged that Turkish troops slipped ashore before dawn to aid the beleaguered Turkish Cypriot fishing village of Kokkina, 20 miles west of Polis.

Turkey and the U.N. Command on Cyprus denied there had been any landing. But the Cyprus government demanded another urgent meeting of the Security Council to consider what it called "perhaps a limited invasion."

Costopoulos said the Turkish garrison at Kokkina, the last Turkish Cypriot coastal stronghold, opened mortar fire on Greek Cypriot positions during the morning. But other sources said the situation there was quiet.

Turkey began the attacks last Friday to halt the Greek Cypriot advance on Kokkina.

State's Clinics Plan Screening

Golden Age Villages To Get Patients

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some state mental hospital superintendents have started screening non-psychotic patients for possible admission to "Golden Age Villages" — when they are built.

The program is for patients who are not insane, but who for the most part have been hospitalized for some time because there was no place for them to go.

Ground is to be broken in November or December for the first of the Golden Age facilities in Toledo and Columbus.

Director Martin A. Janis of the State Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction says others probably will follow in Cleveland, Massillon, Dayton and Cincinnati.

Although James A. Rhodes called them "villages" in proposing the plan 23 months ago during his successful campaign for governor, actually a single-floor building housing 200 presently is planned at the two initial sites.

Janis' department will operate them under contract, but metropolitan housing authorities are buying the land and erecting the buildings. There will be about half single rooms with bath and the rest living room-bedroom-bath arrangements for double occupancy, he said.

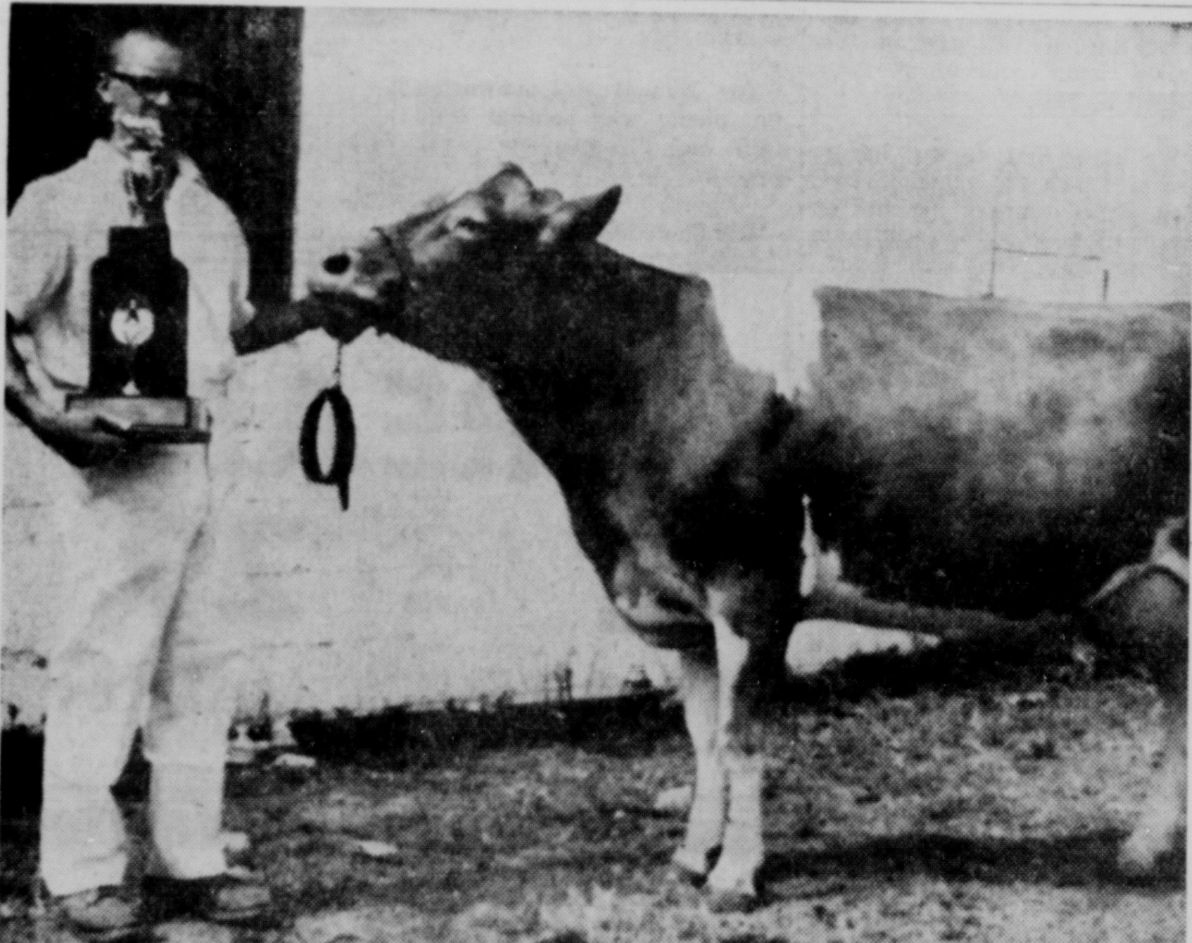

Prolonged-care hospital superintendents have been given a new "patient status form" for each potential Golden Age facility resident, Janis said. It's a detailed analysis of patient health, mental attitude, adjustment, ability to care for himself and get along with others, grasp of reality and overall behavior.

The director predicts this will reveal at least 1,000 patients who meet the standards and can be discharged to live in the community-oriented facilities.

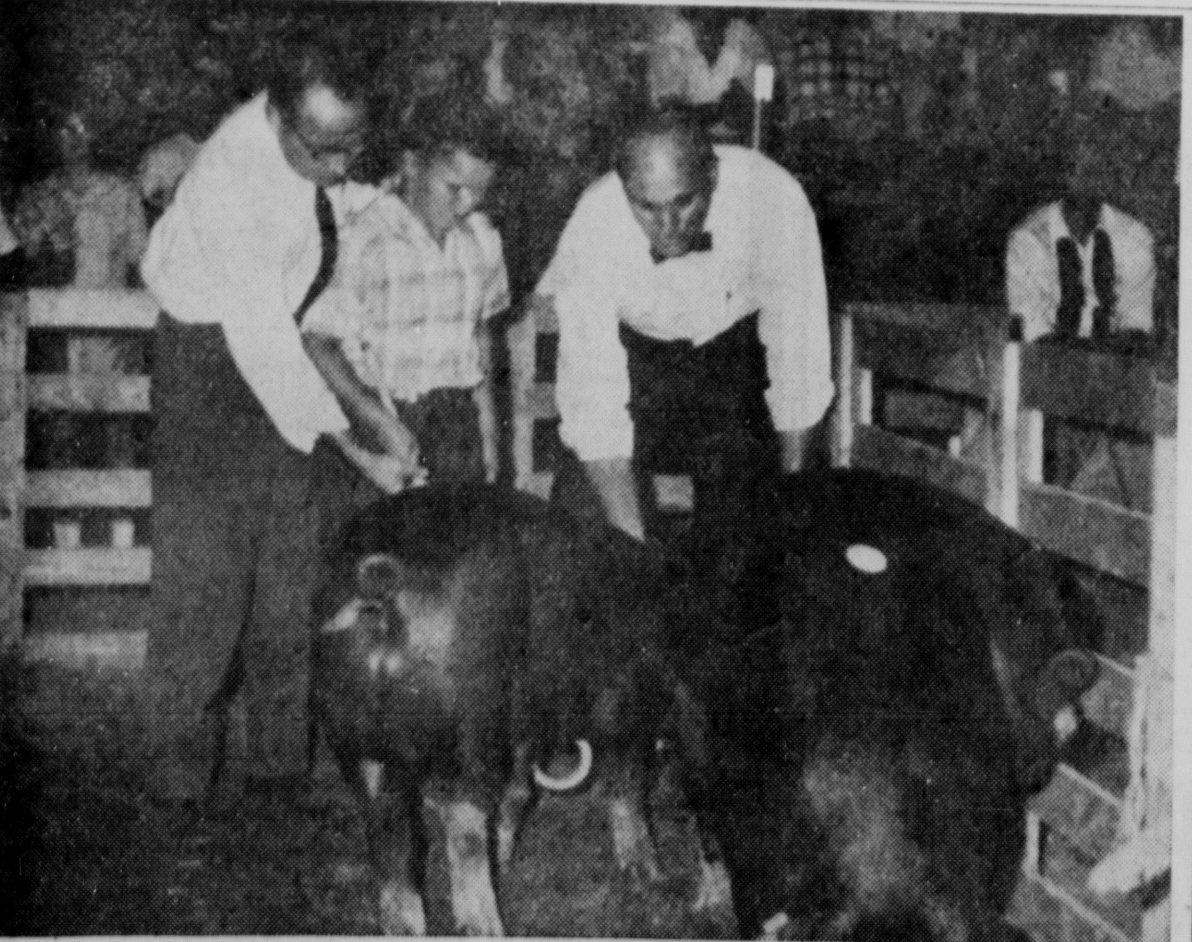

Those living in them will use their Social Security, aid for the aged or aid to the disabled to pay for housing, Janis said, probably $35 to $45 a month. An orientation program will prepare patients for the change.

Bogs abound in sphagnum moss, cotton grass, black spruce and Labrador tea. The bogs of Cape Cod support cranberries, those of New Jersey, blueberries.

There is a sign at Meramec Caverns in Stanton, Mo., which reads: "In Case of Cave-In, Your Money Cheerfully Refunded."

GRAND CHAMPION — Paul Speakman, a member of the Saltcreek Livestock 4-H Club, exhibited this grand champion Guernsey female at the Junior Fair. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Speakman, Route 4.

War on Crooked Police

For years, New York City has been locked in a continuous battle against policemen who have become allies, financially at least, of racketeers. Innumerable grand juries have been sworn in, investigations by the district attorney's office are frequent, and federal investigators have entered the scene.

Several police commissioners have resigned under pressure of the investigations, hundreds of policemen have been fired and during a period of heat a mayor resigned to accept a federal appointment. Despite all this, four grand juries now covering the same familiar ground suggest that police corruption may be more widespread than ever.

What has happened in New York is true of many large cities, but New York's 26,000 - man police force may be subject to greater temptation. Police officials know some of these men will be corrupted. The goal is to prevent a payoff system from becoming entrenched and rotting the force.

Throughout the multitude of investigations, many similarities have appeared. The most common is the refusal of racketeers and others to name the officers who cooperated in gambling ventures. In this respect, the four grand juries now investigating links between police and the rackets may turn out to be different. There are indications that some witnesses are talking.

One piece of evidence that names are becoming known was the firing by Commissioner Murphy of 10 policemen who refused to testify before a grand jury without immunity.

Until the criminal courts take up where the grand juries leave off, the outcome of the 1964 investigations—no matter how promising the testimony given grand juries—will remain in doubt. Memories are still fresh of the 1951 debacle in which gambling kingpin Harry Gross talked freely to a grand jury, but refused to name a single policeman when brought to open court.

The scope of this year's New York investigations hold the promise that the sordid connivance of law officers with lawbreakers may finally come to light. A breakthrough in New York could signal a nationwide cleanup unprecedented in U. S. history.

Matches Worse than Volcanoes

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) —Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Matches start more fires, kill more people, cause more property damage than volcanoes.

Mother earth lives in eternal restlessness. She is like a fat lady with a tight girdle. Every day there is an average of 85 earthquakes, most of them harmless.

We seek to land on the moon before we have freed our own globe from the tyranny of ignorance and the fringe benefits of science. For example, despite the local popularity of the electric light bulb, most of the world's population is illuminated by the candle and the fire place.

On the other hand, our choice of change at home is increased year by year. The best supermarkets now carry at least 6,000 items.

One of the biggest but least-known causes of private melancholy is that people wear shoes too tight for their feet. You can't feel free in the head if your tootsies hurt. Walking with the Army infantry taught me that most of my life I had been wearing a shoe half a size too short — 9½ instead of 10.

This reminds me of the new joke about why the fellow wore pointed shoes. "They are a great help in stamping out cock roaches in corners," he explained learnedly.

It also reminds me of an old joke — I believe it belongs to George Ade — about the shrewd advantage of wearing white shoes: "They don't show frost."

Our quotable notables: "We women don't care too much about getting our pictures on money as long as we can get our hands on it" — Ivy Baker Priest, former U.S. treasurer.

The first living U.S. president to have his likeness on an American coin was Calvin Coolidge. He and George Washington were portrayed on one side of the 1926 sesquicentennial half-dollar, now a collector's item. Only 141,120 of the coins were minted.

Helpful hints for the old-fashioned housewife: Apples stored in the basement with potatoes will keep the potatoes from sprouting.

Worth remembering: "Dento pedology," said Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, "is the science of opening your mouth and putting your foot in it. I've been practicing it for years."

Quickies: Americans will sneeze into an estimated 100 billion facial tissues during the current hay fever season. Half the money that husbands spend to woo their wives with flowers is expended on roses. In Denmark, which has one of the world's highest literacy rates, one out of 10 children is born out of wedlock.

It was Gen. David Monroe Shoup, on retiring last year as commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps, who observed, "We fight any enemy the president designates. We don't just keep talking communism, communism. You might build up hate against one enemy and find yourself fighting another."

The Business World

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Many an executive has been taking bows for holding to a conservative policy that has kept the business upswung from developing dangerous excesses. But maybe it's a machine that should be taking them for him.

Some of these gadgets can cut to minutes the supply and shipping processes that used to take days. And that, say the computer's friends, is a chief reason industry has amazed the experts by holding stocks to a minimum when prosperity was bursting out all over. Customers can find out faster what they need and get it faster, so cumbersome inventories are out of style.

A flour company, for example, links its 128 plants and branch offices with a computer system that each night gathers and processes all company information. In the morning it offers a full analysis of sales and inventory — both how much and where.

At the same time a grocery store chain uses its own computer network to check stocks in all outlets. This is punched out and fed directly into the flour company's system. Whatever one of the chain store's outlets needs of the producer's products can be supplied at once to the closest of the chain's 2 warehouses from the flour company's nearest source. That cuts the need for huge stocks and log shipping-lead times.

Economists first noted that inventories actually dropped in the early months of this year and then rose only modestly during the spring industrial spurt.

Now the Department of Commerce reports that in June total factory stocks actually slipped by $150 million, with the decline concentrated in finished goods. The department says business is "continuing a very cautious inventory policy."

True, but here is an example of how a machine can follow that policy and customers still be served more quickly than ever.

Once it took three to five days and much clerical work to process an order for an electric motor from a Texas district office through the Westinghouse Electric's Pittsburgh base. Now in just 4½ minutes the Texas branch can do this: order the motor by teletype through its computer center near Pittsburgh; have the motor located, the inventory record adjusted, word sent to a designated factory to restock; ascertain the list price, trade discount and the state sales tax; have an invoice typed and an order sent to the right warehouse by wire. This order comes off the teletype with bill of lading, labels already addressed for the carton, and the location of the stock bin in which the motor will be found.

Whether it is computers or top executive judgment, if inventories stay conservative in relation to sales, many of the pulse-takers of the present business expansion will be happy.

A FAMOUS Greek mathematician had all but perfected an equation that would solve the riddle of the universe and win for him honors and riches too great to compute. "If only I could solve that last small point," he sighed.

"Go to the Wise Woman in Thebes," urged a friend. "Never has she failed yet to come up with the right answer."

So the mathematician set out upon the long and wearisome journey to Thebes, and lo! when he set eyes on the Wise Woman of Thebes he found her to be the most luscious and beautiful creature he ever had seen.

"I can receive thee this day," she informed him in a husky, vibrant voice, "because my husband is out hunting. I can answer one question only. What will it be?"

The mathematician sighed ecstatically. "When," he asked softly, "will thy husband be returning from that hunt?"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH... By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Every patient wants to receive from his doctor the best possible care. But safeguarding health is not a one-man job. It requires your cooperation.

There are many things that you, as a patient, can do to help your doctor help you. First, do not wait until illness strikes to look for a doctor. It is always true that the very best care is preventive care. Regular medical checkups can often avoid trouble.

In addition, these visits give you the opportunity to establish a personal relationship with your doctor. If illness does occur, you will have the advantage of being able to turn to a friend, who has a complete knowledge of your medical history.

"Suffering in silence" is often foolish. "Considerate" patients who are afraid of annoying their doctor with complaints can actually handicap him by failing to report symptoms which could help him make a diagnosis.

When you or a member of your family become ill, telephone your doctor. Give him a complete description of all symptoms. If a house call is necessary, he will know what instruments or special medications to bring along. A simple telephone call at the very onset of an illness can spare both you and your doctor time and trouble. Permitting an illness to become serious before "bothering" your doctor is false economy—in terms of health and time and money—and does an injustice to you and to your doctor.

Most regrettably, the price-less bond between doctor and patient is sometimes damaged by the question of fees. Frequently patients are too timid to ask the doctor about his charges. Then, when the bill is received, unreasonable resentment develops. Do not be embarrassed to discuss fees with your doctor. If payments are a problem, he will cooperate as much as possible in reaching a workable agreement. But you cannot expect his cooperation and understanding unless you speak to him frankly and openly.

Your doctor offers to you all the benefits of expert skill and knowledge acquired through many years of intensive training and experience. But he has no supernatural powers. Do not expect miracles. He is a human being, with human frailties, just like his patients. He can err, and he will not always know all the answers to all questions. An occasional "I don't know" is no reflection on his ability. But when he feels it is important to find out he is mature enough and wise enough to seek help by consulting others. Your personal relationship with your doctor should be a treasured one. It grows on faith, trust, mutual understanding and cooperation, and can be an invaluable contribution to the physical and emotional security of you and your family.

Peace and prosperity are the ace cards which Lyndon Johnson has to play in the forthcoming election campaign, and they have normally been sufficient to win the game. Even major dissatisfactions over social issues unrelated to the "two p's" have not usually served to divert a majority of voters.

One thinks of the campaign of 1928, for example. Many people, at the time, were riled up over the catastrophic consequences of the Prohibition law. Bootlegging was rampant; the young people of the Jazz Age were imbibing disrespect for legal authority with every sip of wjky lightning (applejack) or bathtub gin. Fortunes were being built in gangland on the illicit liquor traffic, and the money was flowing into legitimate businesses in a way that threatened gangster control of great enterprises. Yet Al Smith, the New York Democrat who was for repeal of Prohibition, couldn't make any headway against "Coolidge prosperity." And Herbert Hoover, as Coolidge's political heir, won the election. There was the side issue of religious prejudice in this election, of course. Yet if Al Smith had been a Protestant instead of a Catholic the vote count would undoubtedly have still gone against him.

The peace issue, which dominated the campaigns of 1916, 1940 and 1952, was good for victory in every instance. The slogan, "he kept us out of war," returned Woodrow Wilson to the White House in 1916; Franklin Roosevelt's promise, emphasized "again and again and again," that he would not send American boys to foreign wars, beat back the claims of Wendell Willkie in 1940; and Eisenhower's statement that he would personally go to Korea with a view to winding up Mr. Truman's "police action" brought him votes in 1952.

How, then, can Lyndon Johnson lose this Autumn? It is inconceivable that the present boom will have played out by November. True enough, a recent Morgan Guaranty Survey mentions that housing starts peaked out at the end of 1963, and have been drifting lower ever since. The boom in apartment house construction is waning. But the work on building permits that have already been issued will not be demonstrably lower until very late in the year presumably after the election count is in. And if 1965 is destined to be a mediocre year for automobile sales, the trend will probably not be fore-shadowed as early as September and October, when interest in the new car models will be lively. Meanwhile, the tax cut has served to keep the retail trade on an ascending curve.

The peace issue, however, could prove a stumbling block to a Johnson victory. When Brazil turned against its Communists, it was a major piece of luck for U. S. Democrats. But the Chilean election, which is coming up on September 4, could cancel out the gain for hemisphere peace that was made in Brazil. A Moscow publication, Sovetskaya Torgovlya, is already chortling over the prospect of a victory in Chile of Salvador Allende, who is the presidential candidate of the Popular Action Front, the party to which the Chilean Communists adhere. "With each passing day as the elections approach," so the "Observer's Notes" column in Sovetskaya Torgovlya says, "more and more Chileans are turning their eyes to Salvador Allende and the Front's progressive program. The people await the change." A heavy registration of women voters could beat Allende, which would not only save Chile but help Lyndon Johnson.

the necessity of further commitments to protect Southeast Asia. Lyndon Johnson could be the beneficiary of a patriotic war fever of the North Vietnamese and the Red Chinese continue to be sufficiently provocative. But if the war, once entered into more fully, turns out to be a "peace without victory" affair merely to preserve the status quo in a divided Asiatic country, an America that remembers the results of the Korean War could turn against the Democrats.

So much for the effect of prosperity and peace, the "two p's." There remains one other possibility that could scramble the election results. This is the possibility that disorders resulting from civil rights extremism will serve Goldwater as the Prohibition issue never served Al Smith. Precedents area ll very well, but the time comes when every precedent is broken.

War on Crooked Police

For years, New York City has been locked in a continuous battle against policemen who have become allies, financially at least, of racketeers. Innumerable grand juries have been sworn in, investigations by the district attorney's office are frequent, and federal investigators have entered the scene.

Several police commissioners have resigned under pressure of the investigations, hundreds of policemen have been fired and during a period of heat a mayor resigned to accept a federal appointment. Despite all this, four grand juries now covering the same familiar ground suggest that police corruption may be more widespread than ever.

What has happened in New York is true of many large cities, but New York's 26,000 - man police force may be subject to greater temptation. Police officials know some of these men will be corrupted. The goal is to prevent a payoff system from becoming entrenched and rotting the force.

Throughout the multitude of investigations, many similarities have appeared. The most common is the refusal of racketeers and others to name the officers who cooperated in gambling ventures. In this respect, the four grand juries now investigating links between police and the rackets may turn out to be different. There are indications that some witnesses are talking.

One piece of evidence that names are becoming known was the firing by Commissioner Murphy of 10 policemen who refused to testify before a grand jury without immunity.

Until the criminal courts take up where the grand juries leave off, the outcome of the 1964 investigations—no matter how promising the testimony given grand juries—will remain in doubt. Memories are still fresh of the 1951 debacle in which gambling kingpin Harry Gross talked freely to a grand jury, but refused to name a single policeman when brought to open court.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American government, though a work of genius, still has points that are open to criticism.

dent is responsible for his administration, so it is only right that he pick his own team, certainly his No. 2 man.

But is it fair? Is it democratic for one man to make the decision, which could be fateful for the country? You can get an argument here.

No one doubts that President Johnson's voice will be the deciding one when the Democrats round out their ticket at Atlantic City this month.

Similarly, it was Barry Goldwater who did the deciding for the Republican convention at San Francisco, when the vice-presidential choice was William E. Miller.

And everybody knows how singlehandedly John F. Kennedy picked Lyndon B. Johnson to run with him in 1960.

A man running for a presidential nomination has it tough. He frequently has to go through great campaign agonies in a drive for votes — and spend a lot of money.

But to become the vice presidential nominee nowadays, a man doesn't have to do anything but look good to one other man — the presidential nominee.

It hasn't always been this way. The nation's founding fathers set up a system whereby the runner-up for president became the vice president. That system was junked with the growth of political parties. And it hasn't always been the case even in recent years that the presidential nominee had the whole say-so on the vice-presidential pick. In 1956 Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, left the selection up to the convention. But for the most part, the presidential nominees more and more have called the vice-presidential shots.

In 1952, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower gave his blessing to Richard M. Nixon for second place on his Republican ticket. He stuck with Nixon again in 1956.

In 1932 John Nance Garner, loser to Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Democratic presidential nomination, was handed the vice-presidential nomination.

Later Garner criticized Roosevelt's third term plans. Roosevelt dropped him and picked Henry A. Wallace for his running mate. Then, in 1944 FDR let Wallace go and in the end it was Harry S. Truman who was vice president when Roosevelt died.

Instance after instance could be cited of the chancy, sometimes almost whimsical, ways in which vice presidents have been chosen.

Yet, eight men picked for vice president for one reason or another — sometimes by one man alone — have succeeded to the most powerful office in the land, not through merit but because the president died.

U.S. Business Worries about Crisis in Asia

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. business and financial circles spent last week worrying about the Southeast Asia crisis.

The stock market became jittery as hostilities erupted between the United States and North Viet Nam with the threat of Red Chinese involvement.

Businessmen apprehensively pondered what future events hold in store for them.

However, the reaction wasn't as severe as at the time of the Cuban missile crisis in 1962.

The first battle between North Viet Nam patrol torpedo boats and a U.S. destroyer sent the stock market on Tuesday into the steepest decline in two months.

The sell-off accelerated when the market opened Wednesday after news of the second PT boat-destroyer battle and the Dow Jones industrial average plunged 8.90 in the first hour.

The sell-off was due in part, brokers said, to sell orders from foreign stockholders.

Then a steady recovery set in that carried the averages back to where they started the day. Bargain hunters, entering the market after it had experienced a fairly long decline, were responsible for the late buying wave, according to brokers.

Defense stocks led the recovery.

With anxiety growing over what Red China might do, the market suffered a severe late sinking spell Thursday.

Commodities futures prices in

New York and Chicago advanced on the theory that a war would make supplies more difficult to get and that buying now for future delivery would be profitable.

Most businessmen seemed to think that it was too early to make any judgments about the future. Despite initial apprehension, their attitude was one of wait and see.

It was a week, too, in which 1965 model cars began rolling off the assembly lines and talk of the possibility of a steel price advance increase.

Automobile production fell to its lowest level of the year with an estimated 11,400 passenger cars turned out against 620,020 the previous week and 41,862 a year ago.

Production in July fell to 586,255 from 655,200 last year because model changeover was started a week or two earlier.

Negotiations between the United Auto Workers Union and the companies on a new labor contract continued without any announcement of progress. The contracts expire Aug. 31.

The trade publication, Iron Age, said that steel industry leaders are delicately weighing the possibility of a price increase. Some executives were outspoken for the need for higher prices while others were concerned over inflationary pressures, it said.

Demand for steel continued steady with order rates surprisingly high for the summer.

Production during the week held steady with the previous week at 2,270,000 tons. For the first 31 weeks of the year output totaled 72,443,000 tons, 4.8 per cent ahead of the 69,100,000 produced in the like period of 1963.

The National Association of Purchasing Agents, in a report based on a survey of its members, said business was "phenomenally good" in July. For the first time since 1958 purchasing executives reported better new order and production figures in July than in June.

The Labor Department reported that unemployment dropped .04 per cent to 4.9 per cent in July. This was the first time the jobless rate has fallen below 5 per cent in nearly 4½ years.

Employment climbed to 72.4 million last month—the first time that it has exceeded 72 million.

The surge of retail sales was evidence by reports of record revenue in the first half of this year by four of the nation's major retail chains — Sears, Roebuck & Co., J. C. Penney Co., Montgomery Ward & Co. and Aldens, Inc.

On the other hand, construction in July dipped below the June rate, the Census Bureau said. Building outlays in July ran at an annual rate of $65,501,000,000, compared with $66,183,000,000 in June.

SWIMSUIT COVER-UP — A chic sweater is designed to top a two-piece swimsuit and keep the midriff from burning.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN
Summer's a season when you need cover-up, either the kind that's pretty or protective or both.

Protective cover-up is provided by a number of aids. No. 1 on this list is a tanning preparation. Choose your favorite type formula from the many on the market.

There are those, like a new creamy lotion, that lubricate skin even as they filter out harmless rays. There are others, like a delightful-to-use gel, that promote a golden tan and won't wash off while you're in the swim.

Use the lotion of your choice, and use it wisely. Don't forget to apply it to such exposed areas as the bridge of the nose, the top of the feet, the back of the neck and knees.

If you're a bikini baby, smooth lotion on that bare midriff, too. A burn in this area is extra painful as it will hurt every time you move a muscle.

With this in mind, one swimsuit manufacturer has designed a pretty and protective cover-up. It's a smart little sleeveless hip-length sweater to button over a bare midriff.

The eye area needs an ounce of protection, too, if it's not to be circled in white owl eyes caused by wearing sun specs all the time you're tanning.

Take off the specs while you soak up the sun and replace them with cotton pads.

Also watch out for white patterns caused by wearing jewelry or bathing suit straps while tanning.

Choose something pretty in the way of a broad-brimmed beach hat to protect your hair from the sun or invest in a gay kerchief that will also be handy to keep sea breezes from fuffing your coiffure.

Dear Abby:

When and If!!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old girl. I had two dates with an 18-year-old boy I've had a secret crush on for a long time. He was an hour late both times, but I didn't say anything. Then he took me to a big party and wandered away. Nobody even knew who I was with. I had a horrible time. Later he took me to the Senior Prom and I never had a better time in my whole life. He said he had a great time, too, and I know he did. That was the last time I saw him. I heard that he is practically rushing another girl off her feet. I want him to know that after all I took from him, he can't treat me this way and get away with it, and if he were to call me up and BEG me for a date I would turn him down. How can I let him know how I feel?

"WHO NEEDS HIM?"
DEAR WHO: When he calls you up and BEGS you for a date, tell him!

DEAR ABBY: Our 22-year-old daughter has been married three times. The first marriage was a mistake because they were both too young. (The boy's mother had to sign for him.) They called it quits after a year. At 19 she married a 29-year-old Mamma's boy. That lasted two years. Her last husband was an older man. She had known him only a month and, after she married, she found out that he hadn't even been free to marry her. It was a mess! Now she is back home and has started to date. She has no special training and has never worked a day in her life. Her father supports her. I think, under the circumstances, we should have some say about the company she keeps, don't you? Some of the characters she goes with would make you ill. She is our only child and we do love her. What can we do?

DEAR TROUBLED: Tell

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Monday, Aug. 10, the 223rd day of 1964. There are 143 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1776, a committee made up of Benjamin Franklin, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson first suggested the phrase, "E pluribus unum" — Latin meaning "one from many" — as the motto for the great seal of the United States.

On this date: In 1821, Missouri, the 24th state, was admitted to the Union.

In 1917, President Woodrow Wilson signed the food control bill and appointed Herbert Hoover as food administrator.

In 1945, the Japanese offered to surrender under terms laid down at the Potsdam Conference.

Ten years ago—Former President Herbert Hoover charged that Democratic executive agreements since the 1930's had reduced freedom throughout the world.

Five years ago—Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro's revolutionary movement newspaper announced that a counterrevolution against Castro had been crushed with the arrest of more than 1,000 of his enemies.

One year ago — Secretary of State Dean Rusk announced he had persuaded West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to join in a nuclear testban treaty.

Edie Adams To Be Wed To Publisher Next Sunday

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Next Sunday Edie Adams will marry Marty Mills of the music publishing family, thus ending a chapter of courage and determination.

For a year and a half, the talented actress has followed a hard and lonely course in untangling the financial mess left after her husband, comedian Ernie Kovacs, was killed in an auto crash.

Edie eschewed the help of Ernie's many famous friends, who proposed a television special or series to benefit the comedian's widow and three daughters. Instead, she undertook a non-stop schedule that included three movies, a series of television shows, night club and summer theater tours, and record albums.

Her industry succeeded in extricating the estate from its burden of debts and unpaid taxes. "But it nearly killed me," she admitted. "After it was all over, I realized if I had to do just one thing more, I would have collapsed. I didn't have the energy."

Edie is back at her Coldwater Canyon home, struggling to get it ready for the wedding. She and Mills will be married before their families only, with a big reception following at the Beverly Hilton. The pair will honeymoon in Hawaii. Mills, 37, and a bachelor, is a New Yorker who will now help conduct the family business in Hollywood.

How did they meet? "The first time was back in 1953, at a party in Red Buttons' apartment in New York," she recalled. "I was dating Ernie at the time. I saw Marty off and on through the years, but it was very casual."

"Then last January I was in New York having dinner with Janet Leigh and her husband, Bob Brandt. The next day he called me for a date. I had to break it because of work, and it's a wonder he ever called me again."

"But he did, and our first date was — Red Buttons' wedding! Later he took me to dinner at a very fancy restaurant, and I remember thinking how formal he was. I found out later he was thinking the same about me."

She added that Marty got

SWIMSUIT COVER-UP — A chic sweater is designed to top a two-piece swimsuit and keep the midriff from burning.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN
Summer's a season when you need cover-up, either the kind that's pretty or protective or both.

Protective cover-up is provided by a number of aids. No. 1 on this list is a tanning preparation. Choose your favorite type formula from the many on the market.

There are those, like a new creamy lotion, that lubricate skin even as they filter out harmless rays. There are others, like a delightful-to-use gel, that promote a golden tan and won't wash off while you're in the swim.

Use the lotion of your choice, and use it wisely. Don't forget to apply it to such exposed areas as the bridge of the nose, the top of the feet, the back of the neck and knees.

If you're a bikini baby, smooth lotion on that bare midriff, too. A burn in this area is extra painful as it will hurt every time you move a muscle. With this in mind, one swimsuit manufacturer has designed a pretty and protective cover-up. It's a smart little sleeveless hip-length sweater to button over a bare midriff.

The eye area needs an ounce of protection, too, if it's not to be circled in white owl eyes caused by wearing sun specs all the time you're tanning.

Take off the specs while you soak up the sun and replace them with cotton pads.

Also watch out for white patterns caused by wearing jewelry or bathing suit straps while tanning.

Choose something pretty in the way of a broad-brimmed beach hat to protect your hair from the sun or invest in a gay kerchief that will also be handy to keep sea breezes from fuffing your coiffure.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

When and If!!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old girl. I had two dates with an 18-year-old boy I've had a secret crush on for a long time. He was an hour late both times, but I didn't say anything. Then he took me to a big party and wandered away. Nobody even knew who I was with. I had a horrible time. Later he took me to the Senior Prom and I never had a better time in my whole life. He said he had a great time, too, and I know he did. That was the last time I saw him. I heard that he is practically rushing another girl off her feet. I want him to know that after all I took from him, he can't treat me this way and get away with it, and if he were to call me up and BEG me for a date I would turn him down. How can I let him know how I feel?

"WHO NEEDS HIM?"
DEAR WHO: When he calls you up and BEGS you for a date, tell him!

DEAR ABBY: Our 22-year-old daughter has been married three times. The first marriage was a mistake because they were both too young. (The boy's mother had to sign for him.) They called it quits after a year. At 19 she married a 29-year-old Mamma's boy. That lasted two years. Her last husband was an older man. She had known him only a month and, after she married, she found out that he hadn't even been free to marry her. It was a mess! Now she is back home and has started to date. She has no special training and has never worked a day in her life. Her father supports her. I think, under the circumstances, we should have some say about the company she keeps, don't you? Some of the characters she goes with would make you ill. She is our only child and we do love her. What can we do?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Monday, Aug. 10, the 223rd day of 1964. There are 143 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1776, a committee made up of Benjamin Franklin, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson first suggested the phrase, "E pluribus unum" — Latin meaning "one from many" — as the motto for the great seal of the United States.

On this date: In 1821, Missouri, the 24th state, was admitted to the Union.

In 1917, President Woodrow Wilson signed the food control bill and appointed Herbert Hoover as food administrator.

In 1945, the Japanese offered to surrender under terms laid down at the Potsdam Conference.

Ten years ago—Former President Herbert Hoover charged that Democratic executive agreements since the 1930's had reduced freedom throughout the world.

Five years ago—Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro's revolutionary movement newspaper announced that a counterrevolution against Castro had been crushed with the arrest of more than 1,000 of his enemies.

One year ago — Secretary of State Dean Rusk announced he had persuaded West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to join in a nuclear testban treaty.

Edie Adams To Be Wed To Publisher Next Sunday

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Next Sunday Edie Adams will marry Marty Mills of the music publishing family, thus ending a chapter of courage and determination.

For a year and a half, the talented actress has followed a hard and lonely course in untangling the financial mess left after her husband, comedian Ernie Kovacs, was killed in an auto crash.

Edie eschewed the help of Ernie's many famous friends, who proposed a television special or series to benefit the comedian's widow and three daughters. Instead, she undertook a non-stop schedule that included three movies, a series of television shows, night club and summer theater tours, and record albums.

Her industry succeeded in extricating the estate from its burden of debts and unpaid taxes.

"But it nearly killed me," she admitted. "After it was all over, I realized if I had to do just one thing more, I would have collapsed. I didn't have the energy."

Edie is back at her Coldwater Canyon home, struggling to get it ready for the wedding. She and Mills will be married before their families only, with a big reception following at the Beverly Hilton. The pair will honeymoon in Hawaii. Mills, 37, and a bachelor, is a New Yorker who will now help conduct the family business in Hollywood.

How did they meet? "The first time was back in 1953, at a party in Red Buttons' apartment in New York," she recalled. "I was dating Ernie at the time. I saw Marty off and on through the years, but it was very casual."

"Then last January I was in New York having dinner with Janet Leigh and her husband, Bob Brandt. The next day he called me for a date. I had to break it because of work, and it's a wonder he ever called me again."

"But he did, and our first date was — Red Buttons' wedding! Later he took me to dinner at a very fancy restaurant, and I remember thinking how formal he was. I found out later he was thinking the same about me."

She added that Marty got Ever add cumin seed instead of caraway seed to sauerkraut?

Catfish King Still Hauls In Big Ones

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Elmer Affolter of Uhrichsville, who caught the state's record shovelhead catfish — 65 pounds and 45 inches—in 1962, just won't quit trying. Recently, on a one-night trip to Clendenen Reservoir in Harrison County where he caught the big one, Affolter and Frank Davis of New Philadelphia caught five shovelheads weighing a total of 208 pounds. None was big enough to break the record.

The 1,685-acre Milton Reservoir in Mahoning County is yielding three to four pound walleyes to anglers using night crawlers.

The Record Fish Committee of the Outdoor Writers of Ohio, Inc., has some new ones to consider.

Victor Zinn, of Akron, caught a sunfish of the genus lopomis in Mogadore Reservoir, Portage County on June 20. It was 12 inches long, 5½ inches wide, 2¼ inches thick and weighed two pounds.

Ron Kaczmarek, Cleveland, hauled a 38 - inch 13½ - pound northern pike from Aquila Lake Geauga County, July 26 — his 16th of the year. Recognized record is a 38-inch 12 - pound five - ounce caught by E. J. Maloney of Sandusky, in Sandusky Bay in June of 1961.

Lance Wilson of Columbus, used a bow and arrow in getting the other braggin' - size specimen, a 46-inch long - nose gar. He shot it in Big Walnut Creek, July 30—and he told the Wildlife Division the creek was full of gars.

Softball Tilt Won by K of C

Circleville's Hannan Council 5297 Knights of Columbus softball team defeated Lancaster Council 1016 team by a score of 20-13 Sunday afternoon at Ted Lewis Park.

Roger McConnell sparked the winners with two home runs and Fr. John Marquis tallied one round - tripper. On 21 hits, the local team scored as follows: Ebbrecht, four runs, McConnell and Monarski, three each; Fr. Marquis, Barry and Elliott, two each, and Koester, Thornton, Stevens and Shea, one run apiece.

The visiting team scored 13 runs on 17 hits, with six of them coming in the last inning.

The local K of C team travels to Chillicothe on Aug. 23 and to Lancaster for a return game on Aug. 30.

All-Star Practice Set
Bill Ankrom, manager of the Circleville Little League major All-Stars, announced the squad will practice 6 p. m. Tuesday at Ted Lewis Park.

Coach Wes Westrum of the New York Mets began his catching career in 1940 with Crookston of the Northern League. He caught 919 games with the New York Giants.

Eagles Are All Shook Up By Shakeup of Players

Editor's Note: Following is the first in a series on pro football prospects.

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles are all shook up. A series of deals by Joe Kuharich, the new head coach, swept out such old familiar faces as Sonny Jurgensen and Tommy McDonald and replaced them with Norm Snead, Earl Gros, Red Mack and a host of rookies.

Things are in a state of flux in the Eagles' training camp because everybody is new. There is a new owner, Jerry Wolman, new coaching staff, new system and new personnel. Most important, Kuharich hopes, is a new spirit.

"We know we have an uphill struggle," said the former Notre Dame coach. "We are behind everybody else but we hope to improve on last year's cellar record of 2-10-2. We have a young front line on offense with the exception of Jim Ringo and Pete Retzlaff. Basically we will be a blend of the old and the new."

"We just couldn't go along with the defense they had last year. The worst thing is to score 24 or 28 points and still get beat. Your defense should be able to hold the other team to between 21 and 24 points."

The addition of Gros, a fine fullback from Green Bay, plus the speed and drive of Tim Brown, the holdover halfback, gives the Eagles a more powerful running game. Kuharich expects help from Ollie Matson, his old San Francisco U. protegee who was acquired from Detroit.

Norm Snead, the quarterback who came from Washington in the deal for Jurgensen, will have split ends Ron Goodwin and Ray Poage, tight end Retzlaff and flanker Red Mack, ex-Pittsburgh Steeler, as his prime targets. If Snead falters, King Hill is available. Jack Concannon, rookie from Boston College, must start from scratch because he joined the club after the All-Star game.

Kuharich counts on rookie Bob Brown of Nebraska, an unusually agile man for a 275-pounder, to handle an offensive tackle job, teaming with sophomore Dave Graham. Ringo in the middle and Ed Blaine and Pete Case at the guards round out the front line. Kuharich also is high on guard Lynn Hoyem, former Dallas Cowboy.

Friendly Joe still is backing and filling on his defensive front four among Riley Gunnels, John Meyers (ex - Dallas), Floyd Peters (ex - Detroit) and George Tarasovic.

The linebacking crew probably will include Ralph Heck, Dave Lloyd and Maxie Baughan. Glenn Glass (ex-Pittsburgh) and Irv Cross at the corners and Nate Ramsey and Don Burroughs at safety are the likely deep backs but there will be changes all season.

Sam Baker, veteran acquired from Dallas in the McDonald deal, will do the punting and placekicking.

Babe Ruth Stars Move to Finals

The Circleville Babe Ruth Major All-Stars advanced to the finals of the Grove City tournament with a 7-6 win over the Grove City Stars Saturday and a 3-2 victory over Washington C. H. Sunday.

The Circleville Stars will play Saturday 2 p. m. in Grove City against the winner of the Columbus Nationals — Logan All-Stars game for the championship.

In the Washington C. H. game, Circleville scored two runs in the second inning and one in the third to win. Washington managed two runs in the fifth frame.

Dan Gibbs was the winning pitcher, limiting Washington to seven hits, while walking three and fanning two.

TOM CASSILL aided him in the final two frames and walked three batters while holding the opponents scoreless.

Kelly, the losing pitcher, fired an eight - hitter. He threw three strikes past seven men and walked two.

Joe Winner tagged a triple to pace the locals at the plate. Bill Hill, Steve Dade and George Hill lashed doubles and Cassill added two singles.

Circleville stranded five men on the bases and committed three errors. Washington booted the ball five times and left eight runners.

In the Grove City contest, the locals were trailing, 5-0, when they came to bat in the top of the third inning. Gibbs, the first batter up, drew a walk. Both Steve Dade and Bill Hill tagged singles.

Gibbs scored on a past ball

— the first tally for the locals in the contest. Two more doubles were hit in the inning and when the final out was made, the score was tied 5-5.

GROVE CITY couldn't score in the inning. Gibbs was the first up in the fourth inning and he fanned. Bill Hill drew a walk and advanced two second when Dade whiffed.

Hill scored on an error seconds later when Winner tagged a single. George Hill tagged a single that scored Winner and the All-Stars won the game.

Gibbs started for Circleville on the mound. After the first two innings, he had walked five, allowed five hits and five runs.

Tom Cassill relieved him at the start of the third inning and finished the game to collect the win. He allowed a single run on six hits, walked five and fanned one batter.

Kerschner who started for the Grove City squad walked two, fanned one and allowed two hits. Brownfield relieved him in the bottom of the third and walked two, allowed nine hits and whiffed two.

Winner and George Hill tagged doubles for the winners. Circleville left six batters on base a Grove City stranded 10. The locals committed 11 errors and the losers booted three.

All-Star players are requested to meet at noon at Ted Lewis Park Saturday in full dress uniforms.

Relief pitcher Jack Baldschun of the Philadelphia Phillies has blanked Pittsburgh the last two seasons. The string is 34 innings.

No Excuses, Says Pilot as Browns Lose

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"We have no excuses but I'm very disappointed," said coach Blanton Collier after his Cleveland Browns lost to the San Francisco 49ers, 26-7, in the National Football League exhibition opener for both clubs.

"We played a very poor football game," Collier continued. "I wasn't pleased with either the offense or defense. I particularly had hoped that the defensive line charge would be better. It wasn't."

The pinpoint passing the 49er quarterback John Brodie and the kicking of teammate Tommy Davis made the difference in Sunday's outcome.

Brodie, making his first start since he reinjured his arm early last season, passed for one touchdown and set up another. Davis tallied 14 points on four field goals and two conversions.

San Francisco throttled the Browns' offensive efforts with an aggressive defense. The 49ers rolled to a 26-0 lead before Cleveland scored with 5½ minutes left in the game. Ken Webb ran two yards for the touchdown after long passes by Jim Ninowski.

The 49ers rolled up 367 yards in net rushing and passing, compared with 277 for the Browns. The Browns got off only six offensive plays in the first quarter. They didn't make a first down until quarterback Frank Ryan hit Tom Hutchinson with a pass in the second quarter.

A total of $47,917,001 was bet during the 24-day spring meet at Garden State Park last year.

Catfish King Still Hauls In Big Ones

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Elmer Affolter of Uhrichsville, who caught the state's record shovelhead catfish — 65 pounds and 45 inches — in 1962, just won't quit trying. Recently, on a one-night trip to Clendenen Reservoir in Harrison County where he caught the big one, Affolter and Frank Davis of New Philadelphia caught five shovelheads weighing a total of 208 pounds. None was big enough to break the record.

The 1,685-acre Milton Reservoir in Mahoning County is yielding three to four - pound walleyes to anglers using night crawlers.

The Record Fish Committee of the Outdoor Writers of Ohio, Inc., has some new ones to consider.

Victor Zinn, of Akron, caught a sunfish of the genus Lepomis in Mogadore Reservoir, Portage County on June 20. It was 12 inches long, 5 1/2 inches wide, 2 1/4 inches thick and weighed two pounds.

Ron Kaczmarek, Cleveland, hauled a 38 - inch 13 1/2 - pound northern pike from Aquilla Lake Geauga County, July 26 — his 16th of the year. Recognized record is a 38-inch 12 - pound five - ounce caught by E. J. Maloney of Sandusky, in Sandusky Bay in June of 1961.

Lance Wilson of Columbus, used a bow and arrow in getting the other braggin - size specimen, a 46-inch long - nose gar. He shot it in Big Walnut Creek, July 30 — and he told the Wildlife Division the creek was full of gars.

Softball Tilt Won by K of C

Circleville's Hannan Council 5297 Knights of Columbus softball team defeated Lancaster Council 1016 team by a score of 20-13 Sunday afternoon at Ted Lewis Park.

Roger McConnell sparked the winners with two homers and Fr. John Marquis tallied one round - tripper. On 21 hits, the local team scored as follows: Ebbrecht, four runs, McConnell and Monarski, three each; Fr. Marquis, Barry and Elliott, two each; and Koester, Thornton, Stevens and Shea, one run apiece.

The visiting team scored 13 runs on 17 hits, with six of them coming in the last inning. The local K of C team travels to Chillicothe on Aug. 23 and to Lancaster for a return game on Aug. 30.

All-Star Practice Set

Bill Ankrom, manager of the Circleville Little League major All-Stars, announced the squad will practice 6 p. m. Tuesday at Ted Lewis Park.

Coach Wes Westrum of the New York Mets began his catching career in 1940 with Crookston of the Northern League. He caught 919 games with the New York Giants.

Eagles Are All Shook Up By Shakeup of Players

Editor's Note: Following is the first in a series on pro football prospects.

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles are all shook up. A series of deals by Joe Kuharich, the new head coach, swept out such old familiar faces as Sonny Jurgensen and Tommy McDonald and replaced them with Norm Snead, Earl Gros, Red Mack and a host of rookies.

Things are in a state of flux in the Eagles' training camp because everybody is new. There is a new owner, Jerry Wolman, new coaching staff, new system and new personnel. Most important, Kuharich hopes, is a new spirit.

"We know we have an uphill struggle," said the former Notre Dame coach. "We are behind everybody else but we hope to improve on last year's cellar record of 2-10-2. We have a young front line on offense with the exception of Jim Ringo and Pete Retzlaff. Basically we will be a blend of the old and the new.

"We just couldn't go along with the defense they had last year. The worst thing is to score 24 or 28 points and still get beat. Your defense should be able to hold the other team to between 21 and 24 points."

The addition of Gros, a fine fullback from Green Bay, plus the speed and drive of Tim Brown, the holdover halfback, gives the Eagles a more powerful running game. Kuharich expects help from Ollie Matson, his old San Francisco U. protege who was acquired from Detroit.

Norm Snead, the quarterback who came from Washington in the deal for Jurgensen, will have split ends Ron Goodwin and Ray Poage, tight end Retzlaff and flanker Red Mack, ex-Pittsburgh Steeler, as his prime targets. If Snead falters, King Hill is available. Jack Concannon, rookie from Boston College, must start from scratch because he joined the club after the All-Star game.

Kuharich counts on rookie Bob Brown of Nebraska, an unusually agile man for a 275-pounder, to handle an offensive tackle job, teaming with sophomore Dave Graham. Ringo in the middle and Ed Blaine and Pete Case at the guards round out the front line. Kuharich also is high on guard Lynn Hoyem, former Dallas Cowboy.

Friendly Joe still is backing and filling on his defensive front four among Riley Gunnels, John Meyers (ex - Dallas), Floyd Peters (ex - Detroit) and George Tarasovic.

The linebacking crew probably will include Ralph Heck, Dave Lloyd and Maxie Baughan. Glenn Glass (ex-Pittsburgh) and Irv Cross at the corners and Nate Ramsey and Don Burroughs at safety are the likely deep backs but there will be changes all season.

Sam Baker, veteran acquired from Dallas in the McDonald deal, will do the punting and placekicking.

Reno Moves Closer to Shoe Crown

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Harold Reno of Sabina, Ohio, added six more victories to his winning skein Sunday night to move a notch closer to the World Horseshoe Pitching championship.

Reno's record advanced to 23-1 in the 35-match championship which will be determined with six more matches tonight and the final five on Tuesday night. He now has won 20 straight matches.

Elmer Hohl, Wellesley, Ont., and Carl Steinfeldt, Rochester, N.Y., moved into a tie for second place in the champion Class A bracket, each with 21 - 3 marks.

Glen Henton, Maquoketa, Iowa, was fourth with 20-4 and the defending champion, John Monasmith, Yakima, Wash., was tied for fifth with Curt Day, Frankfort, Ind.—each with 19-5.

Four entrants were deadlocked in sixth place with 18 - 6. They were Ted Allen, Boulder, Colo.; Ray Martin, Philo, Ill.; Paul Latray, St. Louis, Mo., and Floyd Toole, Pine Bluff, Ark.

Finals were held Sunday night in Class B and Class C men's competition. Ed Landry of Fall River, Mass., copped the "B" laurels with 6-1 and Roger Norwood, Knoxville, Tenn., had a 7-0 mark to win the Class C title.

Embry Is First

To OK Cincy Pact

CINCINNATI (AP) — Wayne Embry Saturday became the first player to sign a contract for the coming season with the Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association, the club announced.

The six-foot-eight Embry was a prominent factor in the Royals 55-25 record last season and was named to the all-star team for the fourth time. He is starting his seventh season in the NBA. Embry scored 1,383 points for an average of 17.3 a game. He was the only member of the Royals to play in all 80 games last season.

Local Stars Sweep to Double Win

The Circleville Mosquito League All - Stars swept a doubleheader Saturday night from the St. James Columbus team by scores of 19-4 and 9-8.

Greg Hoskins pitched the first game, limiting the losers to two hits. He walked nine and fanned 13 batters.

McCart was the losing pitcher, allowing 11 hits, walking six and striking out five.

Dave Truex, Dennis Leader, Clifford Whaley and Alan Hawks tagged homeruns for the winners. Hawks, Truex and Whaley added singles.

IN THE second game, Truex started on the mound for the locals and won the game. He allowed eight runs on two hits, walked 12 and fanned 16.

Moyer was the losing pitcher. He allowed nine runs on six hits, walked 11 and whiffed eight.

Dennis Leader tagged a double and a single to pace the locals at the plate.

The Stars have scheduled a game for 5:30 p. m. today with the Pickaway County All-Stars at Derby.

Allen Named as Cage Coach at Greenfield

GREENFIELD, Ohio (AP)—An alumnus of Greenfield McClain who went on to earn his degree at Ohio State University is the high school's new head basketball coach.

Dale Allen, 31, was named to the job Sunday. Allen has been assistant coach of varsity sports at the school. He succeeded George Barnes, who resigned to enter industrial employment.

Babe Ruth Stars Move to Finals

The Circleville Babe Ruth Major All-Stars advanced to the finals of the Grove City tournament with a 7-6 win over the Grove City Stars Saturday and a 3-2 victory over Washington C. H. Sunday.

The Circleville Stars will play Saturday 2 p. m. in Grove City against the winner of the Columbus Nationals — Logan All-Stars game for the championship.

In the Washington C. H. game, Circleville scored two runs in the second inning and one in the third to win. Washington managed two runs in the fifth frame.

Dan Gibbs was the winning pitcher, limiting Washington to seven hits, while walking three and fanning two.

TOM CASSILL aided him in the final two frames and walked three batters while holding the opponents scoreless.

Kelly, the losing pitcher, fired an eight - hitter. He threw three strikes past seven men and walked two.

Joe Winner tagged a triple to pace the locals at the plate. Bill Hill, Steve Dade and George Hill lashed doubles and Cassill added two singles.

Circleville stranded five men on the bases and committed three errors. Washington booted the ball five times and left eight runners.

In the Grove City contest, the locals were trailing, 5-0, when they came to bat in the top of the third inning. Gibbs, the first batter up, drew a walk. Both Steve Dade and Bill Hill tagged singles.

Gibbs scored on a past ball — the first tally for the locals in the contest. Two more doubles were hit in the inning and when the final out was made, the score was tied 5-5.

GROVE CITY couldn't score in the inning. Gibbs was the first up in the fourth inning and he fanned. Bill Hill drew a walk and advanced two second when Dade whiffed.

Hill scored on an error seconds later when Winner tagged a single. George Hill tagged a single that scored Winner and the All-Stars won the game.

Gibbs started for Circleville on the mound. After the first two innings, he had walked five, allowed five hits and five runs.

Tom Cassill relieved him at the start of the third inning and finished the game to collect the win. He allowed a single run on six hits, walked five and fanned one batter.

Kerschner who started for the Grove City squad walked two, fanned one and allowed two hits. Brownfield relieved him in the bottom of the third and walked two, allowed nine hits and whiffed two.

Winner and George Hill tagged doubles for the winners. Circleville left six batters on base a Grove City stranded 10. The locals committed 11 errors and the losers booted three.

All-Star players are requested to meet at noon at Ted Lewis Park Saturday in full dress uniforms.

Relief pitcher Jack Baldschun of the Philadelphia Phillies has blanked Pittsburgh the last two seasons. The string is 34 innings.

No Excuses, Says Pilot as Browns Lose

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"We have no excuses but I'm very disappointed," said coach Blanton Collier after his Cleveland Browns lost to the San Francisco 49ers, 26-7, in the National Football League exhibition opener for both clubs.

"We played a very poor football game," Collier continued. "I wasn't pleased with either the offense or defense. I particularly had hoped that the defensive line charge would be better. It wasn't . . ."

The pinpoint passing the 49er quarterback John Brodie and the kicking of teammate Tommy Davis made the difference in Sunday's outcome.

Brodie, making his first start since he reinjured his arm early last season, passed for one touchdown and set up another. Davis tallied 14 points on four field goals and two conversions.

San Francisco throttled the Browns' offensive efforts with an aggressive defense. The 49ers rolled to a 26-0 lead before Cleveland scored with 5 1/2 minutes left in the game. Ken Webb ran two yards for the touchdown after long passes by Jim Ninowski.

The 49ers rolled up 367 yards in net rushing and passing, compared with 277 for the Browns. The Browns got off only six offensive plays in the first quarter. They didn't make a first down until quarterback Frank Ryan hit Tom Hutchinson with a pass in the second quarter.

A total of $47,917,001 was bet during the 24-day spring meet at Garden State Park last year.

'Greatest Sports Thrill'

Mike DiSalle Recalls His Lima Team's Up-Hill Battle to Victory

By MIKE DISALLE For The Associated Press

How can one who has been actively interested in athletics, not only as a participant but as a fan, select one moment above others as the one possessing the greatest sport thrill?

Would it be the first time I accidentally hit a baseball as a first grader at Jefferson School in Toledo—or would it be the time I started playing in my first high school football game—or closing my eyes and sinking a long basket in the closing seconds of a hotly contested neighborhood game?

Would it be watching Georgetown, as underdogs, in Yankee stadium meeting a highly touted New York University football team and completely bottling up the famed Ken Strong.

It could be a World Series game, or even sinking a long putt on the 18th green, or the second shot for an eagle on a 400-yard par 4 hole.

But I suppose the greatest sports thrill of my life came at the end of an exciting baseball season. In 1939 I was president of the Lima baseball team in the Ohio State League. A group of rather young but risk-taking entrepreneurs took a franchise, built a stadium, put in lights and began to recruit a baseball team.

More than 100 would-be-greats reported for the first workouts at the Lima Y.M.C.A. Class D ball clubs didn't go south for spring training. Many youngsters returning from early cuts at spring training camps in the south stopped off at Lima.

The season opened with Lima losing seven games in a row. After winning one, we lost 14 more. So, with the season well under way, we stood one win—21 losses. Many changes were being made. We had the traditional ball club—one there, one leaving, one coming in.

Finally, with Lefty Settlemeyer, the former Red Sox pitcher, managing the club, Lima began to click. The New York Yankees helped with a couple of players. Lefty Biscan was cut by Mayfield and reported to Lima. Harlan Kiersey, killed two years later in World War II, reported as a brilliant third baseman from the U. of Missouri.

On the last day of the season, Lima tied Chappy Geygan's Fremont club for fourth place and a chance at the playoffs. In a sudden death single game, Lima came from behind to win a spot in the playoffs.

In the playoff semi-finals in the last inning of the last game,

Lima beat Grover Hartley's Findlay club.

The big thrill came in the final game in the final section of the playoffs. Lima was playing Dewey Stover's Mansfield club, and the series was tied at three victories each.

In the ninth inning of the final game, Lima was behind, 3 to 2, and Herb Wooden was at bat with the bases loaded. Herb was Lima's cleanup man and heaviest hitter. With the count three-and-two, he got hold of a pitch and hit a line drive to center—too sharp to be reached by Hank Edwards who later became a Cleveland star. Three runs raced home and Lima won the championship.

It wasn't a World Series. World War II intervened shortly thereafter and prevented most of the boys who played in the Ohio State League from going to the majors.

But it had been a long up-hill season, and the final truth had become greater than fiction. Who would believe that a club could "win it all" after losing 21 of the first 22 games?

Anyway, the sound of Wooden's bat hitting that ball was possibly my greatest sports thrill—and one I'll never forget.

(Next—Ted W. Brown)

High School Grid Stars Bid for QB Assignments

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Spirit-ed competition for the starting quarterback berths continues here today as 50 high school football stars work out for Friday night's 19th North-South grid contest.

The 25-man rebel contingent has a three-way fight in progress for the signal-calling post between Bob Johnson of Logan, Paul Walker of Middletown, and Bob Destefano of Martins Ferry.

The Yankees are undecided between Tom Schom of Cleveland St. Joseph and Bill Gales of Niles' state championship team. Arnie Fontes of Canton McKinley, third of the North's quarterback candidates, has been shifted to fullback by Head Coach John Wertz of Cleveland St. Ignatius.

Coach Mel Adams of Logan, head of the southern staff, said he was highly impressed by the showing of 230-pound fullback Clem Turner of Cincinnati Woodward. Fastest man on the Rebel Corps, Turner is slated to do the kicking chores—punting and placekicking—for his team, in addition to totting the ball.

Turner's power and speed are among the factors which have made the Rebels slight favorites. The series is even, each side having won eight games along with two ties.

John Kasselman, all-Ohio guard from Cincinnati Roger Bacon, and Guard Bruce Burdick of East Liverpool, suffered knee injuries late this week but both are expected to play—Kasselman for the South, Burdick for the North.

Kasselman, being groomed for a two-way job against the Yankees, injured his leg while playing miniature golf Thursday night as a local amusement park entertained the boys.

Close to 500 coaches are expected to attend the clinic which gets under way today. Already on hand are mentors from Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Tennessee, West Virginia, New York, Pennsylvania, California, New Jersey, Kentucky and Canada.

Otto Grauman of the Coast Guard Academy, who coached the collegiate All-Stars against the Chicago Bears Friday night, kicks off the clinic sessions today. Other instructors to be heard during the week are Tony Mason of Michigan, who coached Niles McKinley to two state high school titles; Leo Strang of Kent State, Jim Hickey of North Carolina, Tom Nugent of Maryland, Paul Dietzel of Army Warren Ararat of Indiana, and Woody Hayes of Ohio State.

Among college coaches registered are those from Mt. Union, Ohio University, Dayton, Kent State, Lock Haven Teachers, Tennessee A. & I., Tennessee,

Orioles Run High Flag Fever in AL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles wound up a key, four-game series Sunday at Yankee Stadium before the season's biggest crowd—58,102. It was the first of several August sets in which the Yankees usually chop down their American League pennant rival.

When Sunday's doubleheader had ended, however, Baltimore was running a high flag fever while New York was running a tired third in the league's stretch race.

The Orioles' 4-2 victory in the finale kept them two games in front of the Yankees—the Chicago White Sox are second, 1½ games out—and the Yanks needed a clutch pitching effort by Al Downing in their 2-1 first game decision to avert a Baltimore series sweep. The Orioles won 2-0 Friday night and 6-5 Saturday.

"I'm satisfied with three out of four from any time," Manager Hank Bauer said after the twin bill, "especially in their backyard."

The Yankees get another shot at the Orioles next weekend at Baltimore but, at present, the defending AL champions are in their worst position at this stage of the race since 1959, when the White Sox took the flag. The Yankees have four games with Chicago coming up while the Orioles play host to Boston, with a good opportunity to increase their lead.

The White Sox divided a doubleheader with the Red Sox, losing the opener 6-3 and copping the second game 4-1. The Detroit Tigers ran their longest winning streak of the campaign to seven with a 4-2, 5-2 sweep of Kansas City but Cleveland's victory string ended at five when Minnesota beat the Indians 3-1 after a 7-0 first-game loss.

Washington rallied for five runs in the ninth inning and edged the Los Angeles Angels 6-5 in the league's only single game.

Philadelphia held its 2½ game National League lead, blanking the New York Mets 6-0 while second place San Francisco was outscoring Cincinnati 7-5. Pittsburgh downed the Chicago Cubs 2-0; St. Louis trimmed Houston 8-2 and Milwaukee beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-2.

Chi Chi Wins Western Open

Puerto Rican Edges
Mighty Palmer

CHICAGO (AP)—Chi Chi Rodriguez, the long-driving, 120-pound Puerto Rican, has an answer for everything.

After winning top prize of $11,000 in the Western Open, he cracked:

"When I was a kid fertilizing sugar cane, I never thought I would have this much in my whole life."

"I remember when I first started playing on the golf tour. I went around in Pete Cooper's car. When we stopped for gas, I would pretend I was asleep in the back seat. When the check came in a restaurant, I would sneak away to the men's room. Pete did a lot for me. He changed my grip and it changed my whole golf game."

"Also, I have tremendous respect for Ed Dudley. He hired me as assistant pro at Dorado Beach (in Puerto Rico). He gave me the down payment for a home and my first car. He was a great man."

Cooper is a veteran pro now in Sorrento, Fla. Dudley died last October.

Chi Chi, a 28-year-old bachelor who once wanted to make a career as a baseball pitcher, now is head pro at Dorado Beach. His winnings from the Western Open boosted him from ninth to sixth on the PGA earning list with $46,610.

Chi Chi, who constantly jabsbers with his fans of whom there were plenty among the record 20,600 for a Western Open in Sunday's gallery—won with a closing 36-31—67 for a 72-hole total of 268.

He finished two holes ahead of Arnold Palmer, defending champion. They had started the last round in a dead heat for the lead at 201.

Palmer was one-stroke behind with three holes to go. On the 70th, he missed a 10-foot birdie putt that would have squared him.

On the 71st he was over the green on his approach. He went to the cup coming back, but the ball rolled 25 feet past. He wound up with bogey. He couldn't recover from that even with an 18-foot birdie tap on the 72nd and finished with a 68 for 269.

Sharing third place at 275 were Jack Nicklaus and Don Massengale. Ken Venturi was next at 277. Grouped at 278 were Stan Leonard, Tony Lema, Tom Veck, Jim Ferrier and Billy Casper.

High School Grid Stars Bid for QB Assignments

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Spiritual competition for the starting quarterback berths continues here today as 50 high school football stars work out for Friday night's 19th North-South grid contest.

The 25-man rebel contingent has a three-way fight in progress for the signal-calling post between Bob Johnson of Logan, Paul Walker of Middletown, and Bob Destefano of Martins Ferry.

The Yankees are undecided between Tom Schon of Cleveland St. Joseph and Bill Gales of Niles' state championship team. Arnie Fontes of Canton McKinley, third of the North's quarterback candidates, has been shifted to fullback by Head Coach John Wortz of Cleveland St. Ignatius.

Coach Mel Adams of Logan, head of the southern staff, said he was highly impressed by the showing of 230-pound fullback Clem Turner of Cincinnati Woodward. Fastest man on the Rebel Corps, Turner is slated to do the kicking chores—punting and placekicking—for his team, in addition to totting the ball.

Turner's power and speed are among the factors which have made the Rebels slight favorites. The series is even, each side having won eight games along with two ties.

John Kasselmann, all-Ohio guard from Cincinnati Roger Bacon, and Guard Bruce Burbick of East Liverpool, suffered knee injuries late this week but both are expected to play—Kasselmann for the South, Burbick for the North.

Kasselmann, being groomed for a two-way job against the Yankees, injured his leg while playing miniature golf Thursday night at a local amusement park entertained the boys.

Close to 500 coaches are expected to attend the clinic which gets under way today. Already on hand are mentors from Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Tennessee, West Virginia, New York, Pennsylvania, California, New Jersey, Kentucky and Canada.

Otto Graman of the Coast Guard Academy, who coached the collegiate All-Stars against the Chicago Bears Friday night, kicks off the clinic sessions today. Other instructors to be heard during the week are Tony Mason of Michigan, who coached Niles McKinley to two state high school titles; Leo Strang of Kent State, Jim Hickey of North Carolina, Tom Nugent of Maryland, Paul Dietzel of Army, Warren Arrial of Indiana, and Woody Hayes of Ohio State.

Among college coaches registered are those from Mt. Union, Ohio University, Dayton, Kent State, Lock Haven Teachers, Tennessee A. & I., Tennessee,

Orioles Run High Flag Fever in AL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles wound up a key, four-game series Sunday at Yankee Stadium before the season's biggest crowd—58,102. It was the first of several August sets in which the Yankees usually chop down their American League pennant rival.

When Sunday's doubleheader had ended, however, Baltimore was running a high flag fever while New York was running a tired third in the league's stretch race.

The Orioles' 4-2 victory in the finale kept them two games in front of the Yankees—the Chicago White Sox are second, 1½ games out—and the Yanks needed a clutch pitching effort by Al Downing in their 2-1 first game decision to avert a Baltimore series sweep. The Orioles won 2-0 Friday night and 6-5 Saturday.

"I'm satisfied with three out of four from them any time," Manager Hank Bauer said after the twin bill, "especially in their backyard."

The Yankees get another shot at the Orioles next weekend at Baltimore but, at present, the defending AL champions are in their worst position at this stage of the race since 1959, when the White Sox took the flag. The Yankees have four games with Chicago coming up while the Orioles play host to Boston, with a good opportunity to increase their lead.

The White Sox divided a doubleheader with the Red Sox, losing the opener 6-3 and copping the second game 4-1. The Detroit Tigers ran their longest winning streak of the campaign to seven with a 4-2, 5-2 sweep of Kansas City but Cleveland's victory string ended at five when Minnesota beat the Indians 3-1 after a 7-0 first-game loss.

Washington rallied for five runs in the ninth inning and edged the Los Angeles Angels 6-5 in the league's only single game.

Philadelphia held its 2½ game National League lead, blanking the New York Mets 6-0 while second place San Francisco was outscoring Cincinnati 7-5. Pittsburgh downed the Chicago Cubs 2-0; St. Louis trimmed Houston 8-2 and Milwaukee beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-2.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Interviews with Jack Klugman usually start with one question:

"What on earth is the actor who won an Emmy for last season's finest dramatic performance doing playing father in one of these half-hour situation comedies?"

Klugman's forthright response provides no release from press agent pain.

"I signed to do the show before I got the Emmy. Of course I'd never have done it if the Emmy had come first."

Klugman gave an impressive performance on CBS' "The Defenders" as an actor whose left-wing political beliefs destroyed his career.

In October he will turn up as a regular in a piece of NBC fluff called "Harris Against the World." It is part of a comedy trilogy titled "90 Bristol Court." "They offered me a firm commitment for 26 weeks," Klugman continued, "and I decided to take the show because it was important for a while. I found I was spending at least half my life out here in Hollywood at a time when it was important for my boy, who is five, to have his father around more."

He sold his home outside New York and the family is here now in a rented house.

The National Association of Broadcasters' code which limits the time allowed for commercials has been temporarily liberalized so that stations can use paid political advertisements without counting them as commercial time. At least CBS will stick to its usual strict house rules and include political plugs with the usual run of soap, potato chips and beer pitches, for which viewers will undoubtedly be grateful.

Dr. Sam May Undergo Operation

CLEVELAND (AP)—Samuel H. Sheppard, convicted in a sensational and controversial trial of the bludgeoning slaying of his wife in 1954, has entered a hospital where he may have to undergo surgery for a slipped disc in his back.

The former suburban Bay Village osteopath, released from the penitentiary on $10,000 bond last month after serving almost nine years, entered Brentwood Hospital Sunday.

"He has a back condition that has gradually worsened in the past six months," said Dr. Theodore F. Classen, the hospital's chief of staff.

Sheppard married Mr. Ariane Tebbenjohann shortly after being released from prison. He and the blonde German divorcee became engaged after correspondence she started while he was in prison.

A federal district judge freed Sheppard, saying his constitutional rights were violated during his trial. Sheppard was convicted of second degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. The state has appealed the order freeing him, and a hearing will be held in October.

Dr. Classen, who called the surgery "major," said the operation would be this afternoon or tomorrow, if tests and x-rays indicated it is necessary. The physician said he and his staff would perform the operation.

The production of toquilla straw, from which Panama hats are made, is centered near Guayaquil, Ecuador.

Ohio Democrats Schedule Strategy Conferences

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Nobody appeared to be mad at anybody—at least not so it showed—as Democrats gathered today for three strategy huddles. No. 1 on the agenda of all discussions, of course, is the party's national convention, opening Aug. 24 at Convention Hall in Atlantic City, N. J.

Ohio ranks fifth among the states in number of Democratic national convention votes with 99, and will send 215 delegates and alternates. They will meet tonight at 7 p. m., EST in closed session to propose who will be on which national convention committees.

The mayor of Cleveland, Ralph Locher, also is expected to ask them to support his city as the site of the next Democratic National Convention in 1968.

Party policymakers at the state level—the 46 members of the central and executive committee—were to gather shortly before noon.

In an afternoon session, state Chairman William Coleman planned to outline a statewide fund-raising effort to county chairmen. It is to start six weeks from Tuesday.

Another discussion topic is the state Democratic convention in Columbus which opens, Sept. 18, two days before the fund-raising campaign.

U.S. Sen. Stephen M. Young was expected to be named chairman of the big Buckeye delegation to Atlantic City.

Other business concerns the party's national committeemen and women. One change is expected. Coleman has agreed to step aside, and Albert S. Porter — Cuyahoga County chairman and favorite son of the delegation (which will back renomination of Lyndon Johnson)—is expected to replace him.

Mrs. Helen Gunsett of Van Wert and Columbus is expected to be renamed national committeewoman.

No intraparty squabbles were evident at the outset, and Coleman said it appears to be one of the most harmonious sessions in some time.

Damage Is $300 In Auto Fire

An auto belonging to E. A. Thomas of Lucasville burned Saturday afternoon on Route 23 north of Circleville.

The Ashville - Harrison Volunteer Fire Department was summoned. Damage to the auto was estimated at $300.

Deputy Sheriff Gene Kerns said the fire apparently started when an overheated drum ignited a tire.

There are expected to be 35,000 campsites in U. S. national parks by 1974.

Congratulations

To all City and County Residents who helped make the 1964 Pickaway County Fair a success!
